For more information on applying to this program please see our Application Instructions and Checklist.

I can't find the application, where is it?

Please visit our Program Web-page and scroll all the way down to download the application form.

Do I need to send an official transcript with my application?

Yes. All transcripts that are printed or sent online will not be accepted. With this in mind, please request your transcript before the deadline to assure a timely receipt.

I am a current student at the Icahn School of Medicine at Mount Sinai, how do I apply?

Please contact Laura Rivera via e-mail: EMsummerprogram@mountsinai.org.

Can I take a summer course, volunteer, or work part-time during the 8-week summer program?

Yes. The Summer Research Training Program requires a minimum of 20 hours per week over 8 weeks, which may leave time for courses, work or other volunteer duties.

Is there a stipend associated with Program participation?

There is no stipend for students who participate in this Program. However, many students may be able to attain funding through their own institutions. Please inquire within your institution.

Is housing provided for program participants?

Housing is not provided for program participants. Students must make their own accommodations.

When will I find out if I have been accepted into the Program?

Acceptance e-mails will be sent in mid-April for the Summer Session, and on August 1st and December 1st for Fall and Spring research programs respectively.

What is the major difference between Summer, Fall and Spring Programs?

The Summer Program is an 8-week session that includes an intensive orientation, weekly research workshops and didactic sessions on top of one-on-one research with an Emergency Department faculty.

The Fall and Spring Programs only involve close one-on-one research with an Emergency Department Faculty.

Whom should I contact if I have any more questions?

You may e-mail EMsummerprogram@mountsinai.org.
