

GRADUATE MEDICAL EDUCATION

Resident and Fellow of the Month: November 2021

Allison Lockwood, MD

Resident (PGY4), Emergency Medicine
Mount Sinai Hospital

Service to Peers: "Dr. Lockwood is a tireless advocate for her patients and peers. She goes above and beyond for the program in her efforts to incorporate resident feedback to optimize scheduling and wellness initiatives. What makes her stand out is her fearlessness in speaking up for our patients and implementing change on a systemic level at both Sinai and Elmhurst. On top of this she is a kind, thoughtful, and brilliant clinician." "Allie has been the most dedicated leader and chief resident any of us could ask for. She has found new ways to gather our ideas and implement solutions to problems no one thought could be fixed. If anyone has complaints or is just having a bad day she is ready to listen with open ears and an open mind." "She has taken our Elmhurst scheduling to a new level. In the past, it's been the hardest block, no breaks, constantly working, and she has figured out a way for us to have more time for ourselves despite the hours worked not changed. True wellness is when the people in power prioritize your time and well-being when they create structures/schedules."

David Power, MD, MBBCh

Fellow (PGY5), Cardiovascular Disease
Mount Sinai Hospital

Service to Patients and their Families: "I was firsthand witness to David exemplifying outstanding leadership qualities and clinical acumen during an emergency at the Starbucks in the Guggenheim Pavilion lobby. He responded to a person choking on food in the outdoor seating area and the patient was found to be unconscious upon arrival. He immediately activated the cardiac arrest team and started coordinating the roles for running the cardiac arrest. Due to his leadership, we were able to get ROSC and the patient was treated in the MICU afterward. He spent time with the family after this event and explained what had happened and provided answers to any questions they had. He would check on the patient daily while in the hospital and connect with the family in this difficult time. This is only one example of many of his outstanding service to patients and their families. Secondly, David acts as a mentor for his peers within the internal medicine residency. As a former resident, he regularly is in contact with internal medicine residents who are interested in cardiology and mentors them on research projects related to interventional cardiology. He is an example of a devoted and relentless fellow who strives to help others become successful."

Resident and Fellow Peer Nominees for November

Imad Bagh, MD

MSH/EHC Cardiovascular Disease

Salvador Caceres Diaz MD

MSMW Internal Medicine

Nicholas Colonna, MD

MSMW Obstetrics and Gynecology

Timothy Friedmann, MD

MSH Emergency Medicine

Mary Hahn, MD

MSH Neurology

Jonathan Kennedy, MD

MSH Anesthesiology

Mary Kim, MD

MSH Surgery

Emma Loebel, MD

MSH Neurology

Lars Margolis, MD

MSH Hospice and Palliative Medicine

Shivani Patel, MD

MSMW Anesthesiology

Carissa Patete, MD

MSH Plastic Surgery-Integrated

Bailey Perry, MD

MSMW Internal Medicine

Vivek Prakash, MD

MSH Vascular Surgery-Integrated

Damian Suarez, MD, MA

MSH Internal Medicine/Pediatrics

Shuhei Uchiyama, MD

MSBI Internal Medicine

Steven Yacovelli, MD

MSH Orthopaedic Surgery

Omry Zuckerman, DO, MBS

MSMW Pulmonary Disease and Critical Care