Resident and Fellow of the Month: September 2022

Joshua Altschuler, MD

Resident (PGY4), Urology
Mount Sinai Hospital

Service to their peers: "Josh has taken on an incredible leadership role this year, both while transitioning from a junior PGY3 to senior PGY4 towards the end of the academic year, and continuing to fill the leadership role as a new senior residents leading a new team in July and August. After our chief graduated from the busiest urology service at Sinai and the service picked up pace with sick patients and high admission volumes back in June, Josh seamlessly stepped up to help run the service and took on the role of a senior resident, even though he himself remained a junior resident dealing with the burden of overnight call and long junior hours. Josh never complained and always offered to help run the service and fill in any role that was needed during our busiest time of year. When Josh stayed on our busy Sinai service through the academic transition in July, he continued to demonstrate fantastic leadership for his new and transitioning junior team. I'm happy our urology team has Josh to look up to as a role model to continue his strong work ethic and positive attitude."

Rachel Moss, MD

Fellow (PGY4), Pediatric Critical Care Medicine
Mount Sinai Hospital

Service to their peers: "Rachel completed residency at Mount Sinai and continues to show kindness and compassion towards her patients and colleagues as a pediatric critical care fellow. She is engaged in multiple research and teaching projects including her medical Spanish program, SENOR: Spanish Education Nourishing Our Residents. She is an incredible advocate for her patients and a very thoughtful and encouraging friend."
