Dear Research Community,

Are you ready for January 25, 2023? We hope you have read announcements from the GCO and the NIH about NIH's new Data Management and Sharing Plan (DMSP) requirement which is in effect beginning with competitive grant applications due dates beginning January 25, 2023.

As you prepare your plan describing the data you create, manage, and will ultimately share, we are here for you and partnering with other offices at Mount Sinai, most notably the Levy Library, to provide you with Mount Sinai-specific information as well as general repository and metadata guidance for your budget justification and plan.

A View of the Trees in the Forest

Be on the lookout for a series of communications from us detailing the trees in the forest, in other words, Mount Sinai's institutional data management resources and examples of what you might include in your grant application.

Please let us in the GCO know any questions you may have.

Sincerely,

Allison Gottlieb
