

Mount Sinai-Royalty Pharma (MS-RP) Alliance for Health Equity Research

Established in 2022, the Mount Sinai-Royalty Pharma Health Equity Alliance has been extraordinarily successful in conducting impactful science, implementing innovation, and convening multisector conversations to drive progress. The MS-RP Alliance has directly contributed to the creation of new knowledge and implementation of innovative solutions to address health inequities and eliminate health disparities, and it continues to foster research collaborations and exchange of ideas on strategic priorities. These accomplishments have made a substantial impact on the health of communities in New York City and nationally through increased scope, efficiency, and patient representativeness in clinical trials; and paradigm-shifting research on kidney health. Joint research projects bring together Mount Sinai researchers and members of the Royalty Pharma data analytics team to interrogate a huge multipayer claims database with an equity lens to elucidate and address healthcare disparities across a range of medical conditions.

The Mount Sinai-Royalty Pharma Alliance for Health Equity Research provides mentorship for nascent scientists and support for multi-sector partnerships that advance health equity and improve health for all populations. The MS-RP Alliance sponsors an annual From Inquiry to Action Symposium, an inspiring event that brings together community, academic, clinical, industry, policy and philanthropic experts to generate new ideas and partnerships that allow for the development and delivery of the right medicines and therapies to the right people at the right time.
